Crowning of the Homecoming Queen at Alpha Gamma Phi's 12th annual Sword and Shield dance will be the kickoff event for this year's Homecoming festivities.

University students will elect a queen from seven finalists who were selected from 19 contestants. Voting was held in the library Tuesday and yesterday for the queen. Contestants were sponsored by fraternities, sororities and dormitories.

AGP's dance will be held at Lenny's Wagon Wheel tomorrow night from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Terry Pilarski, last year's Homecoming Queen, will crown this year's queen at the dance. The new queen will lead the float parade on the campus the following day. She will also be in the motorcade to Hedges Stadium Saturday night for the football game.

Finalists for the Homecoming Queen are: Jean Richens of Glen Head, N. Y., a sophomore majoring in elementary education, sponsored by first floor, Chaffee Hall; Sandra Merithew of Wethersfield, Conn., a sophomore majoring in medical secretarial, sponsored by Beta Gamma sorority; Faith Allenby of Stratford, Conn., a sophomore majoring in dental hygiene, sponsored by Omega Sigma Rho fraternity.

Also Della Berger from Spring Valley, N. Y., a sophomore majoring in fashion merchandising, sponsored by Sigma Lambda Chi fraternity; Jeanne Taylor of New Bedford, Mass., a junior majoring in elementary education, sponsored by Kappa Beta Rho fraternity; Donna Long of Stratford, Conn., a sophomore majoring in general education, sponsored by Theta Epsilon sorority; Jane Hillner from East Riverdale, Md., a sophomore majoring in dental hygiene, sponsored by second floor, Cooper Hall.

Traditional Homecoming festivities will be highlighted by a football contest between the University and New Haven State Teachers College Saturday evening at Hedges Stadium. Game time is 7:45 p. m.

The Homecoming Queen will be presented during half-time.

Dormitory displays in keeping with Homecoming Weekend are planned by students with judging to take place at 2 p. m. on Saturday.

A parade of floats sponsored by fraternities and sororities will take place at 3:30 p. m. beginning at Alumni Hall. The parade will turn right on Hazel St., proceed down Hazel to Linden Ave., follow Linden to Park Pl. and down Park Pl. The parade will cover this route twice and will end at Alumni Hall.

The University cheerleaders have planned a pep rally at Alumni Hall at 6 p. m. A motorcade will form in front of the Gym at 6:45 and will proceed to Hedges Stadium prior to the football game.

Following the football game a dance will be held at Alumni Hall. Music for this event will be furnished by Ed Riccio and his band.

On Sunday, there will be a jazz concert in the Gym from 2:30 to 5 p. m. Monty Blue and his Dixieland band will provide the music. Bob Frazier of Stratford will M. C.

The Homecoming festivities will include a student-faculty buffet supper in the University dining hall at 6 p. m. Awards will be presented for the best dorm displays and floats at this time. Tickets for the buffet will be on sale at the dining hall and Alumni Hall until 1 p. m. today. Price of the tickets is 75 cents.

Parents Meet Profs.

Parents Will Arrive Sunday For Get-Acquainted Sessions

Your parents will get a chance to meet the people that provide the education for their children on Parents Day this Sunday. This annual University event gives the parents a chance to meet the faculty members of the school.

Pres. James H. Halsey stressed that meetings between the faculty and the parents were the main function of this event. Because the time is short, however, he didn't want any serious problems to be discussed. He preferred that the conference between the parents and faculty be used just to get acquainted.

The events of Parents Day will begin with a buffet luncheon at the Gym from 12 noon until 1:30 p. m. A brief program will be explained at this time. The parents and faculty will have a chance to meet between 2:45 and 3:30 p. m. This will be followed by an informal social between the parents and the on-campus students in the dormitories. The off-campus students will have a social with their parents at Alumni Hall.

A jazz concert (which is part of Homecoming Weekend) will be carried on from 2:30-5 p. m. President Halsey hoped that the activities of the two events would not conflict.

Certain campus organizations have volunteered to serve as guides for the event, which last year proved to be both educational and entertaining to the parents, according to President Halsey. He added that the enthusiasm shown on the part of parents indicates that the Day will be an annual event.

Co-chairmen of the Parents Day committee are Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Rice of Bridgeport. President Halsey, Dr. Alfred R. Wolff, Dr. Claire Fulcher, Prof. George H. Stanley and Prof. Alphonse J. Sherman are members of the committee.

'59 Wistarian Call Goes Out

Charles Huestis, a junior majoring in business administration, has been reappointed this year's editor of the Wistarian.

Art editor for the yearbook is Robert Stumpek, a senior majoring in engineering.

Huestis said those interested in joining the yearbook staff should attend tonight's meeting which will be held in Room 35 of Alumni Hall at 7 p. m.

He also stated that senior pictures will be taken Nov. 17-21 from 9 a. m.-3 p. m. in room 35. Individuals will be notified. Organization pictures will be taken Nov. 24-25.

Editor of last year's Wistarian, Huestis said that the staff will consider all possible areas of improving this year's edition.

Discipline Survey Brings Action on Regulations

Action is being taken by the Student Disciplinary Committee on a survey of disciplinary procedures recently polled by Dr. Alfred Wolff, director of Student Personnel. The first change being recommended is the substitution of other disciplinary measures for three day suspensions.

The substitutions include restriction to the University campus for two weeks for the first offense, four weeks for the second offense and suspension for the remainder of the semester for the third offense.

The committee is also recommending to the Office of Student Personnel that the three day suspension be revoked for smoking in the classrooms. The committee believes that this whole problem could practically be eliminated if faculty members would show an interest in telling students not to smoke in unauthorized places and giving the students a good example in regard to their own adherence to these rules.

According to Dr. Wolff, it is just as important for the students to shoulder equal responsibility in seeing that the existing smoking regulations are obeyed—as the burden of maintaining the existing regulations is a dual one.

If the smoking regulations would be revoked, the disciplinary measures for violation would be in the hands of either the Evening School Office or the Office of Student Personnel and would be handled on an individual basis.

The committee is also studying the initiation of alternate penalties for students who do not pay their fines on time and receive automatically a three day suspension from the University. Penalties regarding other offenses as well as non-payment of tuition fees are under study by the committee and will become part of the self study of the University.

The changes have grown out of a recent survey of college disciplinary procedures conducted by Dr. Wolff's office.

There will be an advisor-advisee meeting for all students Nov. 19 at 1 p. m. Advisors room locations will be posted on all major bulletin boards.

Capt. Pat Calls for Help

Cheerleader Capt. Pat Lambert has sent out an urgent request for help in the spirit department for this week's rally and football game. Miss Lambert and her pretty companions will conduct a pep rally at Alumni Hall tomorrow night and give out with the alma mater and several football cheers.

However, Miss Lambert is a little worried about audience participation and has asked the Scribe to aid in letting the students know their cheers and, although it should not be necessary, the University's alma mater.

So, without further ado, and courtesy of Pat Lambert, here are a few of the yells that should echo from the lawn of Alumni Hall tomorrow evening.

Bridgeport Locomotive: B-R-I-D-G-E-P-O-R-T-B-R-I-D-G-E-P-O-R-T-B-R-I-D-G-E-P-O-R-T-B-R-I-D-G-E-P-O-R-T-Team, Team, Team.

Fight Cheer: F-I-G-H-T-F-I-G-H-T; Can we do it? You can bet! Bridgeport U, Let's get hep.

And if this doesn't stir you, check your Key to UB, that little book of facts given upon your arrival at this institution. This covers most of the gals' cheers although their captain says new ones have since been added.

And, when Captain Lambert calls for the alma mater, it goes like this:

Alma Mater, a toast to thee
Pledge our honor, our loyalty,
From the ocean, far across the land
Our noble college will proudly stand.
Golden memories of days serene,
Golden seasons, familiar scenes,
Bonds will keep us forever true
To Alma Mater, Bridgeport U.

BRICKS OR BRAINS

Another Homecoming Weekend will commence Saturday and several hundred UB graduates will return to view their Alma Mater. What will they find at their old University? How much has it changed since they were handed their sheepskin?

The graduate of, say, 1951 will see a new library, gymnasium, new dormitories and will be told that a $1,300,000 Science Building will soon be going up. And he'll say, "Boy, has this place grown since I was last here."

Well, to be sure, it has grown. There is little doubt that physical expansion has been a prime objective of the University leaders and the evidence is here to show that things are being done in that direction. We do have new buildings, more students, etc.

But we still have many of the same problems that faced the graduate of 1951. It would seem that little progress has been made in the direction of improving class scheduling so that a student doesn't have to attend classes both day AND night. We still have instructors who are not up to the standards that an American university should accept.

Courses are still being cancelled because of "economic" necessity. Trying to fit in a job between sunlit and moonlit classes remains as tough a task as it ever was.

Although the practical and close-to-the-job lectures given by part-time instructors has its merits, it still is true that teaching is not the only duty of those who also hold executive positions in the "outside world." In other words, they are unable to offer professional education techniques along with specialized instruction as do full-time University professors. It is also true that the inadequacies of part-time instruction in advanced courses may very well bring down the average standards of instruction in general.

How much longer will this University continue to offer classes on an irregular basis and bring in comparatively unqualified instructors to teach college students? These two problems are difficult. We know that. But they should occupy first place in things to be done and done soon.

Instead of spending more money for buildings and increasing the student body just for the sake of expansion, shouldn't the leaders of this University try to catch up with the growth that we already have? Let's spend the money on improving our faculty and producing a more complete class schedule.

There are certain schools throughout the country that have put the growth of the campus ahead of improving their academic training. The result has been that these schools have reached a point where the degree they offer carries with it the stigma of inadequacy.

Money has been appropriated to make a self-study of all departments of the University. First and foremost, this study must consider the internal inadequacies that are now prevalent and decide whether we should spend money for "Bricks or Brains."

Gals Give Views on Dating

by Ina Marx

Are you the persistent date-breaker? If you are under what conditions would you break a date?

Many coeds, in a random sampling of opinions, feel that once a commitment has been made they will stick by it, or so they say. Others see no reason why a date should not be broken if it means that a better time can be had with someone else.

Asked if she would break a date with the girls in order to do something else, Norma Traurig, a sophomore majoring in general education, said, "I would unless the girls were depending upon me and my not going with them interfered with their plans."

Another point of view was given by Melinda Mantell, a freshman majoring in fashion merchandising. "I would not break a date with either my girlfriends or a boy since I believe in sticking to a date once it has been made."

The question of breaking dates with one boy in order to go out with another boy brought more definite points of view.

The majority of girls expressed the same opinion as Joyce Thaw, a sophomore majoring in secretarial studies, said "I would not break a date with one boy for a date with another boy as I do not think that it is fair to the first boy."

Rita Siegal, a freshman majoring in elementary education, said, "When you make a date you should stick to it. If you do not like the boy then you should not make the date in the first place."

An opp site view was given by Ann Werba, a freshman majoring in secretarial studies. "If someone special asked me out I would break a date, however, I would not make a habit of this."

Deena Schwartzberg, a freshman majoring in biology, said, "It is better to go out with a boy with whom you are going to have a good time than to spend a boring evening with someone else."

Jack'e Kobe, a sophomore majoring in general education, stated that it takes two to make a date a success. "Unless I was sure that the evening would be a complete flop before it starts I would not break a date."

Jeanne Taylor, a junior majoring in elementary education, said, "The only conditions under which I would break a date would be illness or family problems."

"I would have to have a very good reason for breaking a date once I had accepted," said Judy Kempton, a sophomore majoring in elementary education.

Marge Broskol, a freshman majoring in elementary education, said "I would not break a date with either a boy or girl and if I ever did my excuse would be a valid one."

UB's males have yet to be heard.

Give Us Frat Houses Says Loyal UB Greek

In the three years that I have attended this University, I have witnessed the birth of two fraternities and the death of one, and the advent of two new sororities and the death of another.

What causes this paradox? Is it a question of new groups binding together under a banner of something radically different than the existing organizations? Possibly, but much more likely it's the indifference of the student body as a whole in regard to fraternities and their affairs.

Students are obviously interested in joining Greek letter groups for either social, political or personal security motives. This accounts for the rapid growth of the new fraternities and the steady trend of the older ones.

Pledges are the lifeblood of any fraternity, and in order to have pledges, you must have ample opportunity to solicit your group of rushees. You must be afforded an opportunity to introduce your brotherhood to the rushees and be given a chance to mingle freely with them over a period of weeks.

This cannot be achieved at this school due to the absence of fraternity houses. As a result the large fraternities have a decided advantage over the smaller groups because word of mouth is your only advertisement and personal friendship your only motivating force.

I propose that next year the administration permit any fraternities interested to submit bids on the various men's dormitories, and that the fraternities be held responsible for filling the house with its own members, and also be responsible for its maintenance.

This would serve a two fold purpose. It would first of all bring about a much closer spirit among the fraternity members and it will create a "campus atmosphere", which at the present time seems definitely lacking. It would also remove a tremendous burden from the shoulders of the administration. It would completely remove the cost of vandalism and destruction to school property because each fraternity would be held responsible for any damage incurred in their house. It would create a healthy spirit of competition among the fraternities for care, maintenance, and improvements of the houses and their grounds.

May I urge every member of Greek organizations to support this program to their fullest ability.

Democratic Landslide Shows Voters Prefer Federal Rule

At last week's election the voters decided two things. One: they want their Federal government to take over more of the burden of providing social security, housing, health and education.

As President Eisenhower put it: "They want more spending." Two: in foreign affairs they prefer collective security to individual United States action and they want more reliance on the United Nations.

The Democratic landslide is a definite indication that the average voter prefers Federal action to state action, Federal deficits to state deficits, and Federal controls to state controls. It emphasized the trend of the last half century to concentrate more power in Washington and less in the 49 state capitals.

Foreign affairs did not receive much emphasis, but leading Democratic campaign speakers objected to such vigorous independent action as the United States took in the defense of Lebanon and Quemoy. They asked for a larger degree of dependence on and cooperation with the United Nations.

The effects of the recession, now happily declining, are still felt in such states as Michigan, Ohio and California, where the Democrats scored decisive victories. Nor must it be forgotten that in those states, as well as in some others, the organized labor vote was of decisive importance. The well organized labor vote defeated right-to-work amendments in both Ohio and California. The expensive carefully organized campaigns showed what union labor can do if it really tries. The revelations of corrupt union leadership by the McLellan committee did not have nearly the effect on the voters that had been expected.

The Republicans fared much better in the east than they did in the middle and far west. Since political power is slowly moving from the east to the west, this will be an important factor in future national elections. Thus it appears that the Democratic triumph west of the Mississippi are far more important than the triumph of an outstanding Republican personality in the state of New York.

Nelson Rockefeller's win over Governor Harriman was largely personal, and had little relation to national campaign issues. On the other hand, many Democratic victories in the middle and far west grew out of the more liberal policies of Democratic candidates. President Eisenhower's vigorous criticism of the radical wing of the Democratic Party had little effect upon the voters, and there is no evidence that Vice President Nixon's heroic campaign, which covered every one of the country's important political areas, changed many votes.

As for the avowed candidates for President two years from now, there were few surprises. The best record was made by Sen. John Kennedy in Massachusetts, who was re-elected by an unprecedented majority. Democratic Senator Symington also won his expected victory in Missouri by a large vote. Decisive defeat in New York eliminated Averell Harriman as a potential candidate for the Democratic nomination. His age was against him in any case. Those who watched his eager, somewhat amateurish efforts to get the Democratic nomination in '52 and in '56 held out little hope for him in 1960.

On the Republican side, Senator Knowland of California is eliminated by his decisive defeat in his own state. Despite the California result, Vice President Nixon still remains as top man on the Republican side. He fought a magnificent battle, and even though it was a losing fight he has gained in prestige. With President Eisenhower's backing, he has by far the best chance to carry off the Republican nomination.

There are those who would tap Nelson Rockefeller as a young Lochinvar come out of the East, but he should be permitted to serve his full term of four years as Governor of New York State. He is young enough

UB Engages Clinical Psychologist

by Dianne Ruscoe

A clinical psychologist has been engaged by the University to conduct group therapy sessions with students who have emotional problems requiring professional guidance. Dr. Alfred E. Wolff, director of Student Personnel, announced.

Dr. Harold J. Fine, Jr., clinical psychologist with the local Veteran's Administration, is already conducting weekly group meetings with several University students who have expressed desire for such help. Dr. Wolff emphasizes that these students are completely normal and in some cases are popular with other students, but "they have had the courage to face up to their problems." He says that any student wishing this aid can inquire at the Office of Student Personnel, Howland Hall.

Emotional disturbances have long been recognized as the major educational problem on the college level. Dr. Dana L. Fransworth, director of Harvard University's Health Service, has stated that at least 10 percent of all college students have serious psychological difficulties severe enough to warrant professional help. These emotional conflicts often cause the college student to experience apathy about their academic work and often to drop out of college. He added, however, that most of the students' problems stem from experiences at home or other social environments rather than from college itself.

Commenting on Dr. Fransworth's statement, Dr. Wolff said he would estimate the percentage of emotional problems at the University to be closer to 20 per cent. He stated that the Office of Student Personnel has always engaged in a limited counseling service and has referred student's needing professional help to qualified psychologists, psychiatrists, or other agencies. But Dr. Wolff pointed out that most students can not afford these "fantastically expensive" services. The new group therapy plan, Dr. Wolff says, is offered to the students at a fraction of the cost they would encounter if they sought professional guidance on their own.

Two examples of how the Office of Student Personnel has helped students in the past were cited by Dr. Wolff.

A tense, nervous student complained that he was doing poorly in his studies. After several conversations it was learned that the student's father was a doctor and that his parents had made a practice of impressing the father's importance on the student, resulting in the student's own lack of confidence in his own abilities. The student was trying to live up to his father's reputation by taking pre-med courses. By talking his problems out, the student finally decided that he would be happier in teaching rather than in a scientific field.

Another girl claimed that she could not read. Her entrance examinations revealed that she had an above average reading score and that her poor reading was due to a lack of concentration. Because her parents were divorced, the girl had been shifted from home to home. She felt unloved and had no confidence in herself. Continuous talking sessions gave the girl a sense of security because she was able to talk to someone without fear of censure and to someone who was genuinely interested in her as an individual.

Dr. Wolff said, however, that the Office of Student Personnel could not possibly handle students who need long-term counseling services. In the past these students have been referred to professional help. Now he feels that the group therapy sessions will fill the need that many students have for extended professional guidance.

Dr. Fine received his BA and MA from Wayne University, Detroit, Mich., and his Ph.D. from Syracuse University. He completed his post-doctorate training at Worcester State hospital Worcester, Mass. and at the Veteran's Hospital in Palo Alto, Calif. He presently conducts a private practice in Stratford.

Trio Picked for 'Girls of the Month'

"Arnold Girls of the Month," Beverly Mulonet, Pauline Ellis and Rosemarie Sepe have been cited as outstanding women students majoring in Physical Education.

Dr. David E. Field, director of the Arnold College, says that each month one girl is chosen for recognition of her ability and achievements in one area of sports. A scrap book display is set up in the gymnasium showcase highlighting the girls' sports histories.

Beverly Mulonet, a junior, active in women's softball at the University, has been named shortstop on the Raybestos Brakettes, of the Raybestos Brakelining Co. for the last three seasons. This summer she traveled with the Brakettes to Orange, Calif., where the team won the championship of the World's Women Softball tournament. Miss Mulonet is reported to have hit the winning run for the Brakettes.

Pauline Ellis, also a junior, is president and founder of the University Sailing Club, and was skipper of the University team that won first place in the inter-collegiate sailing competitions held last May at Pembroke University, Providence, R.I. Two years ago Miss Ellis won the Rhode Island state sailing championship sponsored by the Narragansett Bay Yachting Association. She was then entered as an alternate in the North American Women's Sailing competition at Cohasset, Mass.

Miss Ellis has also sailed in the New England Beetle cat boat championships, sailing for the Edgewood Yacht Club of Cranston, R. I. She plans to study for a Master's degree in physical education and teach sailing part time at the University of Maryland.

Swimming is the specialty of junior Rosemarie Sepe. An instructor of swimming and life guard at the Cranston R.I. municipal pool, Miss Sepe in 1956 broke the United States women's freestyle record in the AAU meet at Yale University. Miss Sepe says she has been swimming for as long as she can remember.

On campus Miss Sepe has held the offices of manager of the Women's Athletic association, secretary of the Modern Dance Club, dormitory president in Women's House Government and is a member of the Newman Club. She is a member of the state planning committee of the Connecticut Association of Health Physical Education and Recreation.

'Scottie' Gets Service Award

by Purves Wright

Joseph S. Lindsay, known on campus as "Scottie," was awarded the third annual citation for distinguished service to the University at the All-UB Dinner, held Oct. 24.

Scottie, a maintenance man with 10 years service, received a scroll signed by Pres. James H. Halsey, Vice-Pres. Henry Littlefield, and Board of Trustees Chairman Alfred V. Bodine.

"A man of rare courtesy, dependability, thoughtfulness, Scottie of the melodious burr has contributed markedly to the well-being of the whole college." This is a phrase from the citation Scottie received at the dinner.

When asked by the Scribe how he felt about the award, Scottie blushed a little, then laughed before saying, "It was the biggest surprise I've ever gotten."

Scottie was born in Kilwinning, Scotland. He came to the United States in 1923 and worked on Long Island as a roofer until the depression. He then chauffeured from 1933-1941. He came to Bridgeport to work as a chauffeur and caretaker for Mrs. Nathaniel Bishop. Mrs. Bishop died six years later and when the University bought the Bishop home Scottie stayed on.

In the Scribe interview with Scottie, he said, "I have had a quiet but hard life. My father died when I was 18 and I had to help support myself, two sisters and a brother."

Scottie is a life member of the first lodge of Masons in Great Britain.

Scottie's wife, Elizabeth, works in the University cafeteria. A son Alan, 13, is in the eighth grade at Roosevelt School.

Weightlifters, Gymnast Group Schedule Meets

The formation of a gymnastics team and the planning of a weight-lifting team has been announced by Dr. David Field, director of the Arnold College Division.

The gymnastics team has scheduled two meets with the University of Massachusetts, here and away. Possibilities of matches with the University of Connecticut and New Haven State Teachers College are in the planning stage.

Competition will consist of the rope climb, still and flying rings, parallel bars, side horse, balance bar and the trampoline.

A proposed weight-lifting team was the outcome of a recent meeting of weight-lifters in the Arnold Room of the Gym.

At the meeting, in which several University weight-lifters were present, Field announced that the coming season would include meets with other colleges.

Field also stated that the weight lifting team would conduct intramural competition and a learn how-to-lift clinic.

Weightlifters attending the meeting were: Jerry Rookasin, Malcom Schuldineo, Joe Karsmar, Bob Oesay, Jerry Bader, Stan Cariola, Stan Engle, Carol Murphy, Robert Balaban and Herb Orr.

The election of officers will be held at the next meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 19 at 1 p. m. in the Arnold Room. Field said that anyone interested may attend as it is not confined to just lifters and body builders.

Dr. Field also announced plans for the Second Arnold Physical Education clinic scheduled for Nov. 22 in the Gym.

Booters End Season Saturday

Saturday's festivities for Homecoming Weekend will include a soccer game in which the sailors of the Coast Guard Academy of New London will be matched against the Knights of UB. It will be the last game of an eleven game schedule for the Knights and they will be seeking their eighth victory. Their record to date reads seven wins, two defeats and one tie.

Last week's action saw the Knights travel to New Haven to play the Yale Bulldogs. Yale, which was Ivy League champs last year and in all probability will repeat again this year, is a very strong soccer school. The Knights, although controlling the ball the entire game, had to settle for a 1-1 tie. The Bulldogs scored first as their center forward scored early in the first period. John Majesko, the leading scorer for the Knights this season, tied the game in the next period. That was the end of the scoring in a game that went into double overtime.

Coach McKeon's eleven returned home last Saturday only to go down to one of the worst defeats in the team's history. The kickers lost to a powerful Springfield College eleven 6-1. The McKeon-men were never in the game as the boys from Mass. completely dominated the play. The Knights seemed to be in a mental daze, probably due to the Yale tie. Frank Wlassak, the Knights' fine co-captain, was the only man that could score for the home team. He scored in the second period and it was his ninth goal of the year.

One explanation for the team's poor showing against Springfield is the fact that Coach McKeon didn't wear his "lucky jacket." McKeon had never failed to wear this jacket until last week and from the score it doesn't look as though he will ever fail to wear it again. Right, coach?

The freshmen soccer team, coached by Dick Hungerford, won its fourth and fifth games of the year last week. They defeated Danbury State Teachers College Freshmen 3-1, and they traveled to West Point and defeated the Plebes 2-1. Again, as in the past games, it has been the foot of Bob Dikranian that proved the difference. He managed to score twice in the Danbury game and once in the tussel with the Plebes. He now has scored ten goals for the season.

Game time for the Homecoming struggle is for 2:00 p.m.

UB Faces New Haven in Homecoming Clash

The Scribe — Thursday, Nov. 13, 1958

by Andy Morgo

Returning home after four straight games in hostile territory, the Purple Knights will attempt to end their season on a winning note as they play host to the Owls of New Haven State Teachers College in Saturday's Homecoming game at Hedge Stadium. The Kay men lost their last game to Brandeis University 14-12.

Brandeis scored early in the first period to take a six point lead. Halfback Bill Delaney dove over from the one yard line for the first touchdown of the day. The score was set up by continuous pass completions starring quarterback Dave Bouchard.

Late in the second stanza the Knights tied the game at six all. Mickey Donahue, the Knights' quarterback, got the score on a sneak from the one yard marker. The touchdown was made possible by a fine 53 yard scamper by sophomore fullback Tom Shea on the previous play. Shea, on a counter play over center, broke over center, broke in the clear as he cut to the right side line. He was caught from behind on the one. A huge hole was opened by the fine blocking of Vito "Warrior" Rallo.

The Purple chargers broke the tie in the last period as George Dixon scored on a twenty five yard run over left tackle. This march covered 73 yards and was featured by the hard running of Captain Don Scott and George Dixon. The try for the points failed but the Knights were out in front 12-6.

The Judges of Brandeis now started a march of their own from the 23 yard mark with less than three minutes remaining to be played in the game. After driving to the one yard line on the passing of Dave Walker and UB penalties, the Judges were stopped three times before a pass interference penalty gave them a first down on the half yard line. Delaney then bucked for his second touchdown of the day, which tied the score at 12 all with only a minute in the game. Co-Captain Bouchard now came off the bench and threw a two-point conversion pass to provide Brandeis with the winning points.

The game saw George Dixon add 136 yards to bring him over the 1000 yard total for yards rushing. He now has 1028 yards for eight games. Dixon is the eastern college leader in this department and is third in the nation for all small colleges in rushing. Dixon, in the Brandeis game, gained more yards rushing than the entire Brandeis eleven. They could only manage a mere 86 yards rushing against the strong forward wall of the Purple Knights.

Again it was the passing defense that was the ultimate reason for the defeat Brandeis completed 11 out of 18 passes for 182 yards. UB had two for eight for 36 yards.

Many of the Knights will be playing their last game for the Purple and White this Saturday, before a Homecoming crowd against the powerful teachers of New Haven. Included in the list of seniors are, halfbacks Dixon and Scott, fullback Red Springer, quarterback Edward Donahue, ends Duane Shepard, Gene Dowling and Ed Wakim, tackles Ernie Levitt and Dick Bonini, guard Joe Communale, and center Lennie Ledet.

The Teachers will be big favorites to hand the Knights their sixth defeat of the year. Their offensive machine is led by the hard running of left halfback Henry Luzzi and fullback Walter Stosuy. Luzzi is the scoring leader of New England and is a difficult man to stop. Last week he scored 28 points to lead his team to a 78-42 victory and has now scored over a 100 points this season. Stosuy, who stands 5'11" and weighs 220 pounds is a fast and powerful back. These two men will have to be stopped if the Kay-men want to end their season with a win.

The line is led by its two huge tackles, Mike Sudora and Co-Captain Bob Splain. Both men are in the neighborhood of 6'4" and weigh 250 pounds. Another big man in the offense is end Al Badger. Badger, also weighs well over 200 pounds, is fast and a very good pass receiver. Stosuy, Luzzi, Splain and Badger have been recently awarded a first team place on the All-State Team.

George Dixon, UB's brilliant fullback, has also been elected to the All State Team for the second year. End Duane Shepard and tackle Dick Bonini have also been placed on the squad.

Coach Bob DiSpirito's freshmen team ended its season Saturday with an impressive win over the Aggies of Long Island Junior College. The Purple Cubs defeated the men from the Island 22-0 and ended with a season record of two wins, a tie and a loss. The game featured the hard running of Walt Chezak, who scored one touchdown, and Dennis Almonte, who also scored a touchdown and kicked well. The third touchdown was scored by Adam Koperatts. These boys will be counted to replace the departing halfbacks next year.

While the New Haven eleven will be heavily favored to trounce the Knights, the Teachers will come here prepared for trouble.

The desire to finish their college career with a win will mean a lot to the many seniors on the UB squad.

Alpha Gamma Phi Fraternity presents the annual Sword and Shield Dance this Friday night at Lenny's Wagon Wheel. The most talked about event of the dance will be the crowning of the Football Queen by the A.G.P. men. A tea was held last Sunday afternoon in order to determine a slate of finalists to compete for the coveted crown.

If the article concerning "gung-ho-ing" it up at the Girl's Dorms rattled a few skeletons in the barrack's lockers, it was purely intentional. Was his a RUMOR? If this was a RUMOR, and not a shred of the article held water, then why is everyone sounding General Quarters Alarm over it? This RUMOR appears to be consistently nourished.

Well, now that Ed Coffey, T.S., is the second-time winner of a bottle of Mother "G" prize for forced landings, he appears to be content. It seems that the supposedly fatal barrage that downed Ed, forced him, conveniently, into the arms of a very charming rescuer. Ed says that even though it was a forced landing it proved to be BETTER than the originally scheduled flight. Those who were present loudly acclaim this statement.

The former Miss Gail Breff, a familiar face at UB, is currently majoring in marriage with Mr. "AL" Alfredo, who, according to Gail, is the only professor for her. Wedding bells rang out this summer for the newlyweds, after which they departed on a trip to Canada and the Northeastern part of New England. Mr. and Mrs. Alfredo have taken up residence in this city.

Fred Pike, SLX, made many points this past Sunday night while a guest of Dr. and Mrs. Littlefield. During the dinner, Fred was demonstrating how adept he was at daintily scooping up a dish of jello, when much to his dismay the shivering desert leaped off his plate and on to the carpet of Mrs. Littlefield's dining room. Fred covered up nicely by stating how much better he was equipped to handle doughnuts and coffee. The Littlefields were hosts to the Student Council at their home Sunday night for dinner and informal get-together. The high point of the evening was the showing of slides that Dr. Littlefield took while traveling through Europe this summer. An off the record comment heard during the showing of some fantastically beautiful scenery was "No wonder tuition went up!"

Last Saturday SLX and PDR combined talents to throw a PLAYBOY PARTY. The bright spot of the show that PDR put on was one famous bachelor about campus, Howie Abner. Mr. Abner was the target of some well placed arrows concerning his stand-offishness to women. Good boy, Howie let 'em all eat their hearts out.

Sighs and Quotes of the week: "Fraternities and Sororities on campus are nothing more than clubs that stood in line while Greek letters were being passed out as consolation measures." "Moon" believers in the two-planet system. Cly Huggans, according to her daughter, is champion in the square-dancing field. Mike Alpert still reading those articles before his dates. Al Palumbo doing very nicely after his "nasty" fall of last week.

to be able to wait, and he should be allowed to gather more experience as the executive of the Empire State. If what Al Smith once told me is correct, it will take him two years to really get to know his job as Governor.

Republicans need not be too discouraged about the results of a midterm election which brought in enough Democratic Representatives and Senators to give the party an almost two-to-one representation in both houses. Because of the special circumstances that surrounded Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration in 1934, he was able to prevent a Republican gain in House and Senate in 1934. But with that single exception we can go back for something like a half century without finding any instance where the opposition did not win additional strength in Congress in a midterm election.

Nor are Tuesday's results likely a handicap to President Eisenhower in carrying forward his policies for the last two years of his term. He worked very successfully with the last Democratic Congress, and Democratic Speaker of the House Rayburn has already assured the country that Congress and the Administration will continue to work together for the benefit of the country as a whole. Neither Rayburn nor Senate Democratic leader Johnson has shown any disposition to oppose major Eisenhower projects just because they came from a Republican President.
